
FEBRUARY 25, 1829.

Read twice, and ordered to be engrossed, and read the third time to morrow.

Mr. STORRS, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to which was referred the case of William Hayman and William C. Lipscomb, reported the following bill:

A BILL

For the relief of William Hayman and William C. Lipscomb, Executors of the last will of Catharine Redman, late of Georgetown, in the District of Columbia, deceased.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives
2 of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That
3 the alienage of Catharine Redman, late of Georgetown, in 4 the District of Columbia, shall not be pleaded, or alleged in
5 any court or plea whatever, to impeach or invalidate the title
6 of the said Catharine as heir to the lands situate in George-
7 town aforesaid, of which her late husband, James Redman,
8 died seised: Provided, That this act shall not be construed
9 to include or extend to any other persons whatsoever, who 10 may be entitled to, or claim any interest in, the said lands, as 11 heirs to the said James Redman.
